RACS retains the right of determining where product tests have to be performed (at customer's facilities or in external laboratory).

The applicant accepts to:

- a) Provide RACS with samples of the product when requested.
- b) Send the samples to the external laboratory if needed and to bear the related expenses. If the applicant refuses the visit of auditors or the tests on samples without convincing reasons, the certification will be suspended or withdrawn.
- c) The applicant undertakes to keep at disposal of RACS, during their visit, and to reveal all requested documents including records of complaints from any source and the responses given as well as the corrective actions.

While performing the surveillance, the following issues are always taken into account:

- Closing non-conformities effectively.
- changes in organizational structure, documentation or process/plant changes compared with the previous audit;
- Appeals and complaints against applicant.

RACS communicates (through its operations manager or the deputy) with the applicant for evidences of correcting the non-conformities and completing the corrective actions raised during the surveillance audit.

If the results of the surveillance do not allow the certification to be maintained, RACS shall promptly inform the applicant about pending non-conformities. RACS establishes a maximum deadline of 60 days to solve such non-conformities.

When this period above expires without sufficient actions by the applicant, the procedure of suspension/withdrawal of certificates is being followed. The certification cannot be confirmed to be valid again until the solutions and the corrective actions due to possible critical non-Conformities are effectively closed.

The supplementary surveillance audits with intervals of less than 12 months can be required by RACS if critical non-conformities are found. These audits are charged to the applicant.

Furthermore, if RACS receives notifications regarding complaints, non-conformities or doubts regarding the product conformity or the reliability, RACS has the right to conduct supplementary audits in order to verify the maintenance of compliance with the normative documents and applicable standards which.

Notes:

- a- The applicant should allow the conduct of sudden evaluations by RACS accompanied with Auditors from the accreditation bodies where the accreditation body can ask on these sudden evaluation audits on RACS and its customers.
